Mystery Of Big Berthas

German Will Not Tell What Has Become of Them.

The most mysterious problem going out of the war has not yet been solved. What has become of the "Big Bertha" guns which the Germans shelled Paris and which they tried to develop so as to send high explosives across the Channel? Only one gun was found intact and a second partly dismantled, but allied control officials have been informed that at least a dozen such guns had been completely destroyed when the stopped operations. All demands for the details of their destruction, however, are being met with delays and stunts of evasion and the suggestion that they were probably broken up for scrap with other material—while the Allies know nothing. As tests are known to have been carried out on the sandy shores of the North Sea, the Control Commission is now considering sending a group of plain clothes investigators to patrol the long range coast districts with the idea of ascertaining if the Germans have merely buried their long range weapons or used their secret appliances until a good opportunity for their use is effectively against their traditional enemy.

Office Boy Wins

Three Thousand Dollar Prize Reward For Improving Opportunities.

The Paris prize of the Société of Beaux Arts Architects, amounting to $3,000, has been won by a young man who was employed recently as an office boy in a New York architect's office. This lad was not content to go through the mechanical routine of his duties. He laid hold of every opportunity for self-improvement. He studied after hours in classes that the firm maintained, on the same principle as those night schools which so many establishments today consider for the educational advancement of their employees.

Continuing the heels of the winning of the Prix de Rome in painting by a young man about to be elected for re-election of the rent, it is a striking example of the fact that merit does count, and not just, or friendly influence, or social position after all—From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Late Corn Ripens in Manitoba. A bulletin of the Provincial Department of Agriculture notes that even the latest types of corn have ripened in the fields at the beginning of October. At many places in the Province even the tenderest vegetation was untouched by frost at the beginning of October.

Census man (to tramp)—Now, let's see what's your religion? Tramp—Oh, stick me down a Hoanigan Catholic—by Sydney Bulletin.

And there is always more or less relief in a community when a chronicicker kicks the bucket.

In November itself there is to be an assorted lot of epidemics, and during the year, it is predicted, many old persons will die.

Real Discoverer Of Wireless

M. Brantly Showed How to Detect and Receive Electric Waves.

The first wireless message sent a distance greater than a few hundred yards was as follows: "M. Brantly sends M. Brantly his respectful compliments by wireless telegraph across the English Channel, the splendid achievement being due in part to the remarkable work of M. Brantly." It was in 1899, when Guglielmo Marconi established wireless connection between Dover in England and Westward Ho! in France. Today, when the name of Marconi is a household word, while that of Brantly is unknown except to scientists.

Not that Marconi has usurped any of the credit due to Brantly—for it was he who was the very first, in the message quoted above, to take off his hat to the genius whose successive discoveries made wireless possible, and in his wireless work never failed to draw attention to the modest savant and his scientific labors. For wireless telegraphy is not the invention of any one man. It is rather the result of a long series of small discoveries, one of which seemed sensational at the time it was made, but which Marconi knew how to put together and apply to the practical use of mankind.

The names of the pioneers of wireless should be known:

It is his credit to the electric waves which bears his name.

Richi, who taught Marconi the practical possibilities.

Pope, who first experimented in sending them.

Brantly, whose discoveries in pure science were able to detect and receive them.

Marconi, who harnessed them and put them to use.

Prediction For 1922

Packed With Trouble According to Old Moore's Almanac.

With your step to 1922, according to Old Moore's almanac, it will certainly be some year. In May or June the only bright year, it is said, that month, the light peace commotion is prophesied. This seems to be a great consolation to the rest of Old Moore, who has been on the job staring and writing his almanac for 22 years, but in spite of his long experience, he must have gotten the shivers when he envisaged the possibilities for December, for the finale of the year is predicted to be a storm, it is to be occupied with world-wide sedition, unrest, riots, strikes, accidents, crime and general lawlessness and confusion.

As preliminaries, the February outbreak includes outbreaks in Germany, France, Italy and the Transvaal. In March there is to be a crisis in Spain, and Portugal and unrest throughout the universe. June will be marked with a plethora of accidents in America and from then till November the world is to run the whole gamut of economic and social convulsions.

In November itself there is to be an assorted lot of epidemics, and during the year, it is predicted, many old persons will die.

English Sheep Dogs Show "Human" Skill

Complete Understanding Exists Between Animals and Shepherd.

To appreciate fully the possibilities of intelligence in a dog, writes the "Miscellaneous" columnist of the Man. Chester Guardian, one should witness some of the sheep dog trials held at this season of the year in various parts of England.

In these trials each dog has to round up two or three sheep, and then enter the task most difficult. If the sheep are taken from their folds, the sheep are scattered over the course, usually a long and undulating one, and the dog must first collect them, drive them through gaps in the hedges or hurdles, or possibly through a narrow cross arrangement made with hurdles, and into the pen. Sometimes this test is followed by similar course by which the dog, only one sheep to pen. The shepherd is allowed to help his dog until the Maltese cross is reached. In all the preliminary trials the dog's owner communicates his instructions by shouting or signal whistle, yet so complete is the understanding between man and dog, that by a single call he can check the rushing animal and have it crouching on its belly so as not to frighten the sheep which may be nearby in the place where they are required.

A Musical Hand saw

Carpenter Succeeds in Getting Agreeable Music From Tool.

The ordinary hand saw has recently appeared as a musical instrument. One of the best saws for work, but which Marconi knew how to put together and apply to the practical use of mankind.

The names of the pioneers of wireless should be known: It is his credit to the electric waves which bears his name.

London To Bagdad By Airplane

Journey Made In Two Days Used To Take Six.

An officer of the Royal Air Force proceeding home from Mesopotamia. In the ordinary course of duty, it would have taken him six days to get home. He flew from Mesopotamia to Egypt in two days over the route which has been opened up by the Royal Air Force for the carriage of official mails.

Starting at Bagdad at 6 a.m., on September 15, the flight across the Syrian Desert to Amman, a distance of 515 miles, was made in 9 3/4 hours on the first day. The second day's journey began early and by 9 o'clock Heliopolis was reached after a flight of 225 miles. From Heliopolis the journey was continued to Aboukir, the total distance covered on this was arranged to coincide with the sailing of the S.S. Vienna from Alexandria Dock. Within 40 minutes of arrival at Aboukir the officer was back in England by sea and rail. He arrived in London at 5 30 p.m. on September 21, 16 days and 14 hours after leaving Bagdad, having saved from 10 to 15 days in passage. The air route linking Palestine with Mesopotamia was surveyed and organized by the Royal Air Force in June of this year. A series of aerobatic stunts were given by the carriage of official correspondence was started on August 1.

Carrier Telephone System Successful

Service Has Been Installed Between Edmonton and Calgary.

The first carrier telephone system in Canada has been put into commercial use between Edmonton and Calgary. It has been under test for some time, and is now being used by a complete section and ready for business. The installation was made during the late summer for the purpose of improving and increasing the Government telephone service between the two cities and to outlying points in the north and the south. Two new lines have been provided by the installation of this system. One line runs from the north and the south, and the other from the east and the west. The telephone department says that the results in actual use are gratifying, and that the system is a complete success. It is also possible now to carry on simultaneous conversations over the same line.

A Gigantic Apple Tree

Cap Shelter Two Hundred Persons Under Its Branches.

At Meeth Gardens, Helston, Cornwall, owned by Miss W. Roberts, is a remarkable apple tree, planted over seventy years ago by the late John Anthony. A thirty-year-old apple tree is seen in the top branches, and the tree is dome-shaped with boughs reaching to the ground. From underneath the tree it looks like a room, capable of holding over 200 persons. It is reported to be the largest apple tree in Cornwall, Devon and Somerset, and was last summer loaded with fruit estimated to weigh over two tons.

The fruit is the orange pippin kind and of very fine quality.

Talking Pictures. A picture that talks without the aid of a phonograph or any other sound device, is a remarkable achievement, invented by Grinnell Matthews and has been successfully demonstrated. It embraces the principle of the phonograph sound waves. At the demonstration a picture was shown of a man seated at a piano. As he struck the keys the sound of music in a correct tone was heard from the instrument, which looks like a sugar cookie. The inventor asserts that the system will soon revolutionize the motion picture business.

Dutch Honey Bees for B.C. A consignment of Dutch honey bees has arrived for the use of Kelowna beekeepers. The Dutch bee is well known for its honey-producing qualities. Agriculture is becoming an important branch of industry among the fruit farmers of the Okanagan Valley.

It is not always the depth or novelty of a thought which constitutes its value to the world, but the degree of its application to our circumstances.

Let us remember that all that is good on earth is merely a reflection of the good that is above.

Remarkable Gain In Weight Reported By This Young Woman

Robert Cecil.

"Before I began taking Tania I only weighed 70 pounds. I now weigh over one hundred and am gaining every day." said Miss L. R. D. of Chattanooga, Tenn.

"I bought my first bottle of Tania at the City Hotel and it helped me so much that I continued using it. I have always been very delicate and suffered a great deal from stomach trouble and rheumatism. My appetite has improved and my sleep is now good. I feel so different now. It is the only medicine that has ever done me any good."

"The Marcellaine" Was Popular

Sung By All Allied Armies In France.

"John Brown's Body" and "Dixie," the product of Civil War times, have probably been the most popular of American marching songs. "A Hot Time" is the martial legacy of the Spanish-American War. What songs will be best remembered in connection with the Great War? "Over There," "The Last Long Mile," "Tippecanoe," and "Johnny" are mentioned in a recent book as possible candidates for the honor, while "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here" is also probably to be reckoned with. "The Marcellaine," however, it is declared, was sung by all the Allied Armies in France more generally than any other song.

British Premier Pleads For Understanding And Peace Among Nations

London.—In greeting the Government's proposal to alleviate unemployment, Mr. Lloyd George made the following declaration in the House of Commons:

"Peace and a good understanding among nations is vital. Let us get out of the atmosphere where if you talk about a German without a patent, Trade cannot start in such an atmosphere. If you intervene to make peace, your motives are misinterpreted; but if Great Britain will open the nations begin again the task of peace."

Mr. Lloyd George, referring to trade with Russia, said there were no restrictions on the British side in trading, but that the trade for the first eight months of the present year had not been $25,000,000, which showed there was not an unlimited field in Russia for British or any other enterprise.

In the debate following the Prime Minister's speech, Mr. Asquith said in his judgment the question of unemployment related to the entire problem of international indifference, including the indifference of the Allies to one another, and the indifference of their late enemies to the Allies.

Pacific Naval Base Not Named

Premier Hughes Says It Will Not Be Singapore.

Melbourne.—Premier Hughes, speaking in the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth, said the question of a British naval base in the Pacific was discussed at the recent conference of the Empire and that a decision regarding it was reached. He added, however, that the base would not be at Singapore.

Premier Hughes' reference to Singapore may be taken in connection with an article in the London Daily Sketch reviewing the rumor that Great Britain was preparing a new naval base in the Pacific which was stated to be intended to spend $2,000,000 in converting Singapore into a British station. The sketch added that if an agreement were reached at the Washington armament conference, the arrangement which provided the creation of an alternative base of importance in Australia, could be countermanded.

A Red Cross Appeal For Peace

Nations Asked to Join in Campaign Against Spirit of War.

In virtue of a higher law and duty, and of principles above the level of human passion, the help of the Red Cross was directed forth to all victims throughout the ordeal of the Great War.

Today, the Red Cross asks it to itself and to all its many workers to proclaim an ideal and a practical solution, a struggle against the horrors of war, an attempt by world-wide help and usefulness definitely to abolish war.

The most optimistic of Red Cross activity in time of peace will no longer suffice. It is the wish of the Red Cross to work in the interest of peace.

Therefore, the Red Cross calls upon all whole-hearted citizens, irrespective of nationality, religious belief, profession, or social rank, to join as far as lies in their power in a systematic campaign against that spirit of war, which is a constant menace to the world's peace.

During five years, millions of men were killed or maimed. Today, thousands of ex-soldiers or prisoners at last set free bear indelible marks of bodily and mental suffering. All of them believed that the generation to come would reap the fruits of the great ordeal in a new international life, which would be more peaceful, freer and more full.

Instead, disorder and uncertainty, distrust and greed, hatred and the spirit of war, unquenched, reign supreme. Its sinister influence is evident in legislative lines of policy and press campaigns, which lead public opinion astray and exalt the economic competition among nations.

During the terrible years of the recent war, superfluous efforts were required of the different nations. In order to inspire such sacrifices, a sense of reward was promised—namely, the annihilation of this war, as old as the world and a constant menace to mankind.

These generations yet unborn would have been delivered from the scourge of the price of the suffering which the war entailed. This hope sustained millions and armies. Have they hoped in vain? Have millions of human lives and the wealth of nations been sacrificed in vain?

Faced with these questions, the Red Cross recognized a duty. At the suggestion of Senator Charles, Chairman of the Senate Committee on the tenth International Red Cross Conference, which met at Geneva on April 12, 1921, voted the following resolution:

"The International Committee of the Red Cross and the League of Red Cross Societies shall address an appeal to all nations, exhorting them to combat the spirit of war, which dominates the world."

These two organizations call therefore on nations and individuals to fight with all means in their power this malevolent spirit. May statesmen, writers, school and university, capital and labor remember that it is their duty, in the interest of mankind, to help peace to conquer the earth. Every child should be brought up in this humanitarian belief.

It is essential that the human mind should once more be open to the broad lines of an internationalism, which, while allowing the citizen to love his town and the patriot his country, teaches all men to respect the rights of all.

WESTERN EDITORS

respect the existence and the rights of their citizens, by bringing into the light the individual facts of a struggle, which is to be in all the world for all time.

This new internationalism cannot be attained without the active and intimate cooperation of governments, parliaments, voluntary organizations, the press, the clergy, and above all, National Red Cross Societies. To the union of these forces must be added a conscious feeling of the power of individual conviction.

The individual must no longer see himself in the light of a selfishness, anger, fear and human passion, but in a spirit of courage and human duty.

That only can a better future be prepared.

Faithful to the ideal which inspired its founders, and which it has never served, the Red Cross hereby declares before the whole world, that its work does not end with war. The Red Cross appeals to the heart of all mankind, that each individual may not in himself the needed strength and determination to make war universal peace.

Legislature Would Superannuate the Civil Servants

Some sane sort of superannuation for civil servants in the province is contemplated by the provincial government. It was announced at a conference held at Edmonton between the representatives of the civil service and the government. This is the first conference held with the civil service since the new government took office.

"An efficient, contented and industrious civil service, free from favoritism and politics," is the government's aim. Premier Greenfield told the representatives present.

The object of the conference was to discuss superannuation and working conditions of the civil service generally. The utmost harmony prevailed, and considerable satisfaction was felt by the civil servants at the conclusion of the conference. The executive of the association will gather data on superannuation at the suggestion of the government.

The Child Immigrant

As much care as their transfer across the Atlantic. It is a remarkable fact in the history of Canada that for every boy and girl that brought to Canada, there have been a dozen applicants. This demand enables those who are responsible for the children's welfare to allocate them with great care. There follows close inspection and supervision of them for some time after they are placed and this tends to keep high the average in earlier years, enabled voluntarily in the war and served with the highest distinction, proving themselves to be as loyal and brave as the best of Canadians.

The 75,000 child immigrants have long since been absorbed into the life of Canada and are playing their part in her development. They have been as equally successful farmers, stock growers and ranchers, and are found in all the professions and other lines of work. Some have found their way to legislative halls, some are in the ministry and a large number are equally successful business men.
